Wilson Meets With Soviet Leaders

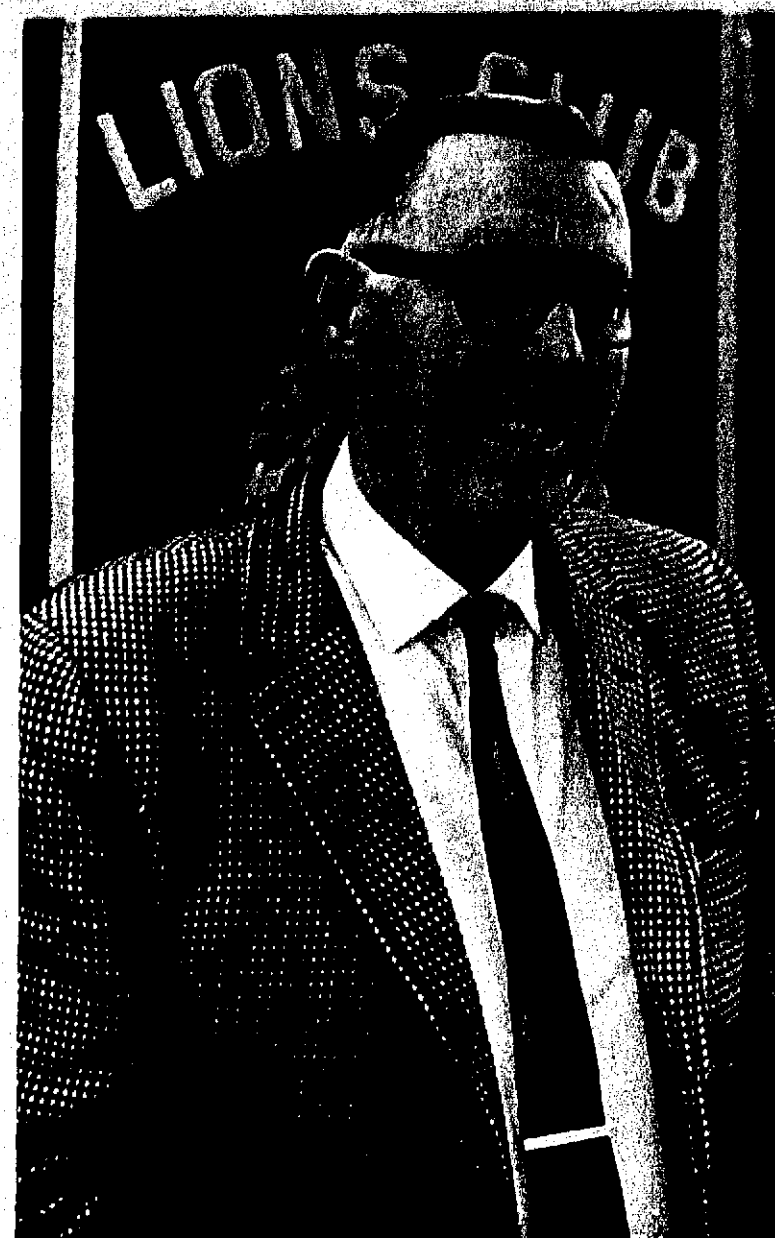

By JOHN WEYLAND
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson met with the Soviet Union's top leader today for three hours—one hour longer than scheduled—and British spokesmen said the talks were constructive. Wilson and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party general secretary, were said to have discussed world problems, but neither Soviet nor British spokesmen would say which ones. An official Soviet announcement said: "There was a frank exchange of opinion on some topical international problems and also on questions pertaining to relations between the U.S.S.R. and Britain." The Soviets usually use the term "frank" to indicate disagreement. It was assumed Wilson tried again to get the Soviet Union to agree to reconvening the Geneva Conference on Indochina to seek peace in Vietnam. The British and Russians are co-chairmen of the conference. After the meeting Premier Alexei N. Kosygin gave a luncheon for Wilson, Brezhnev attended the luncheon, as did Mikhail A. Suslov, the powerful but shadowy Soviet figure and Politburo member who oversees foreign policy and ideology. Wilson conferred for 4½ hours with Brezhnev Monday, and he was expected to see President Nikolai V. Podgorny Wednesday, Wilson's last day here. There was only silence from the U.S. Embassy and Soviet officials about the contents of a note from President Johnson to Kosygin delivered shortly before Wilson's arrival. British sources, however, said the note was shown to Wilson and that it dealt with "a world problem."

Lions Told About Brick

EARL O'NEAL

Earl O'Neal of Hope Brick Works was speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Lions Club and told the group about the world's oldest industry, brick-making.

Hope Brick Co. was established in 1903 by the late N. P. and R. S. O'Neal and the first brick production was March 1904. The plant made 3 million that year and employed 16 persons. In 1907 employment reached 30 with the payroll running $9,028 for the year. Last year there were 80 employees with a payroll of over $388,800 with services and supplies bought in Hope amounting to over $130,000 totaling more than $500,000 expenditure in the Hope trade area.

Since 1904 the local plant has made over 675,284,000 brick and the payroll during those years has run over $5,056,381. Hope Brick Works now has 262 years of O'Neal brickmaking experience. This represents five generations as Mr. O'Neal's grandson, Johnny Gardner, 18 plans to become a Ceramic Engineer.

At yesterday's meeting guests included Freddie Glaze and Duffie Booth of Hope, John King and Larry Williams of Ouachita Baptist College.

JP's Can Try Misdemeanor Cases, Ruling

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled Monday that a justice of the peace can try misdemeanor cases if there is no municipal court in his township.

The Supreme Court's ruling overturned a previous ruling by Lawrence Circuit Judge Andrew G. Ponder, Lucian Lee, justice of the peace in Morgan Township in Lawrence County, filed the appeal of Ponder's decision. Lee convicted Thomas D. Watts of reckless driving in justice of the peace court, fined him $50 and sentenced him to five days in jail. Lee suspended the jail sentence.

Watts' father, William D. Watts, appealed the case to Circuit Court. He said there was a municipal court of countywide jurisdiction at Walnut Ridge and that Lee did not have jurisdiction.

Judge Ponder ruled in Watts' favor. The Supreme Court, however, said that both the Walnut Ridge court and Lee had jurisdiction in Lee's township but that the municipal court had exclusive jurisdiction only in its own township.

HEW Cuts to Hit Colleges, Universities

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, cutting its spending by $550 million in the first half of this year on orders from Congress, will take the biggest slice from college and university building aid.

But most of the higher education construction funds will simply be held up until the end of the current fiscal year July 1—unless Congress orders a continued financial holddown.

"A lot of people's plans are being upset," said an HEW budget official of college and university officers, "and they're already letting us know about it."

Officials said most institutions probably will get next fiscal year the money they were expecting this year. But they noted that the possibility state agencies disbursing the funds could give the money to new applicants.

The $450 million that was to have been spent on college and university buildings this year will be cut about one-third, to $300 million, officials said.

Funds for health teaching facilities—mainly medical and dental schools—are to be cut almost as much: $58 million from an authorized $175 million.

Hospital construction funds were left with only slight reductions, officials said, because of the great new need for hospital space generated by the medical care and medical programs. A planned $274 million outlay will be reduced by only $11 million.

In elementary and secondary education, the government's $1-billion-a-year program of aid to poor youngsters will not be reduced.

But funds for supplementary education centers, to be administered by the states this year for the first time, will be cut by 10 per cent, or $20 million. Officials noted, however, that amount still will have been increased greatly because of additional money that was authorized.

Federal Impact aid—for school districts with federally connected students—will be reduced by about 5 per cent, or $20 million.

In addition to these major spending cuts, HEW since the middle of December has been awarding only a few construction grants each week in order to minimize the inflationary pressures.

The $500 million cutback comes out of a total HEW budget of $11.7 billion, of which about $7 billion is money not obligated for such mandatory spending levels as Social Security and welfare.

The day was divided into 24 hours late in the 4th century. Before that, the daylight period was divided into 12 hours and the night was divided into watches, meaning the times when the guards were changed.

Sees Layoffs Due to Wage, Hour Law

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Malcolm C. Hearne, executive director of Goodwill Industries of Arkansas, said Monday that a federal minimum wage law may eventually force the agency to lay off some of its employees.

Goodwill and similar groups have been paying workers $1 to $1.20 an hour but the minimum wage goes up 15 per cent Feb. 1.

Hearne said the agency is negotiating an appeal with the Department of Labor and that the number of persons laid off would be determined by the success or failure of the appeal.

Hearne said that Goodwill employs about 135 persons in Arkansas but that only 35 were involved in interstate commerce and that only those 35 would be affected by the ruling.

"This gets to the sticky point," Hearne said, "because you can't take money from those outside interstate commerce and pay a person working in interstate commerce more than their earning rate."

Hearne said that because of a management change, extension into vocational rehabilitation service and public support, Goodwill in Arkansas was better off than it was in many other states.

There are branches of Goodwill Industries of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, Malvern, Helena and Conway.

Students Turn In Weapons

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) —

The shooting of a Simpson College student in a dormitory room led a number of other students to turn in weapons to authorities Monday.

"They were carrying them down the hall by the armload," said Sheriff William Mathews.

Charles C. Cooley of Chicago, a freshman, was shot in the chin and neck when a pistol held by another student apparently discharged accidentally. Mathews said. No charges have been filed.

Questioning of dormitory residents indicated "a great deal of shooting has been going on—out of the windows, into furniture and mattresses," the sheriff said.

Jalopy

The expression "jalopy" for an automobile originated in the 1900s. Because of a shortage of cars in Mexico, many were shipped to Jalapa, Mexico, for resale and thus arose the corrupted term "jalopy," meaning an old automobile.

MR. AND MRS. JESSIE CALVIN BURKE

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Calvin Burke observed their Golden Anniversary with Open House at their home East of DeAnn, Sunday, January 14.

The honored Mrs. Burke wore a soft blue dress with a jeweled neckline and a gold orchid corsage. Mr. Burke had a yellow rose boutonniere and those in the house party had yellow carnation boutonnieres or corsages.

Guests were greeted at the door by Charles Dudley, of Dallas, Charles Graham of New Orleans, and Dick Willis, grandson, a student at the University of Arkansas.

Mrs. James H. Burke, of De Ann, introduced guests to the receiving line which included Mr. and Mrs. Burke and their seven children, Mrs. Elston Willis, of Hope, Mrs. Betsy June Ganton of Little Rock, Reverend Ralph E. Burke of Dallas, James H. Burke of De Ann, Mrs. Galloway Woodward of Magnolia, John C. Burke of Jackson, Missouri, and Mrs. James Roe of Whittier, California.

Pretty flowers carrying out the golden theme and beautiful arrangements received from friends were seen at vantage points throughout the home. In the dining room the table was laid with white nylon organza over white satin. The cloth was draped with Southern smilax and caught at the corners with gold wedding bells and ribbon. The centerpiece was a crystal compote holding yellow Golden Wave roses and Leather Neck and flanked with yellow tapers in double crystal holders. The silver punch bowl was surrounded with frosted grapes, and the white five tiered wedding cake was trimmed with gold wedding bells and topped with a gold "50". Punch, cake, and mints were served by Mrs. Ralph E. Burke of Dallas, and granddaughters Mrs. Charles Graham of New Orleans, and Mrs. Charles Dudley of Dallas.

At a table covered with a white linen embroidered cloth and holding an arrangement of yellow mums the guest book was in charge of Mrs. John C. Burke of Jackson, Missouri.

Gifts were received and displayed by Miss Poleda Ganton, a student of Hendrix College, and Miss Gail Burke of De Ann, granddaughters.

Others dispensing hospitality in the house party were Miss Margaret Ella Woodward of Magnolia, and Miss Kim Burke of Dallas, granddaughters, and James Daryl Burke of De Ann and Calvin Willis of Hope, grandsons, and Mr. Galloway Woodward of Magnolia, and Mr. Elston Willis of Hope.

Some 300 people called during the appointed hours.

Extension Home Economist Dolores McBride was the guest speaker for the afternoon, and she told "How to Tidy Up Your Family Life." Mrs. Lyle Allen gave excerpts from "Family Life Highlight," and Mrs. M. S. Willis performed her duties as secretary. The group decided on a project for a shut-in, and the vice-president, Mrs. T. L. PERFECT GIFT SOLUTION

Dear Helen: I figured out the perfect gift a guy can give a girl, if he doesn't know her tastes too well or if she doesn't hand out hints.

Give her a sweater that is two sizes too small for her. She is complimented that you consider her so slim—and if it doesn't fit, she won't hurt your feelings by exchanging it. Just be sure to keep the store receipt, that's all.—DAN

Dear Dan: If you're that uninspired, chum, why not do it the easy way?—Give her a gift certificate.—H.

Dear Helen: My parents are like concrete: all mixed up and firmly set. They are absolutely sure that if a girl stays out after 11 p. m. she'll come home pregnant. They just KNOW if I don't bundle up with a scarf, coat, gloves and wool cap, I'll "catch my death" on even mild winter days. They are sure every boy "is out for no good." They figure people become teachers because they can't hack it in any other work. They insist that all the popular singing groups are on dope... And short skirts are the invention of sex maniacs.

The trouble is, you can't argue with them. If I suggest that they just MIGHT have the wrong slant, I'm grounded for a month. I tried it the other day again, on a little old thing like not smothering myself in clothes. I read them statistics on how ice skaters, hockey players, channel swimmers, etc., don't have as many colds as people who always bundle up. I learned better, fast!

Is there any way to unset cement?—CHIP FROM TWO BLOCKS

Dear Chip: No one is harder to "unset" than the wrong person who is dead sure he's right.

Your parents' rules on dating hours, etc., may wear down gradually, but I'm afraid you're stuck with the cement-type ideas. Don't bat your head against what you know you can't change. You'll get farther sanding down the rough spots.—H.

Dear Helen: My mother is very strange for nylons. I mean she has a fit every time I get another run. You know—like "All those poor starving people, and here YOU spend $10 a month on stockings!"

I can't help running them, but maybe if you could suggest a good use for the discards, she would n't be so upset.—NYLONS IN MY WASTEBASKET

Dear NIMW: How about stuffing the discards into your zipper-covered sofa pillows? At our house, I console myself by saying, "We haven't lost another nylon, we've gained a plumper cushion."

But DO try to be more careful. At the risk of sounding like a capital "N"-type mother, I must observe that money spent on teen nylons could buy a whole lot of CARE packages.—H.

Dear Helen: That letter from the Freshman girl who daydreamed about going with the student body President but said nobody knew she was alive—she could have been me three years ago.

I was a wallflower too—a shy timid Freshman. I didn't go to school activities, was afraid to join clubs or make friends. Then in my Junior year, I blossomed. I learned to use make-up well, got a new hair style, outer clothes—also a more outgoing personality. It took lots of work and nerve I didn't know I had, but I found something I could do well, and built from there. Today I'm editor of the school paper, popular, and having a ball. Oh, yes, and I finally DID catch the student body president!

I hope "Invisible Me" takes your advice, Helen. It works!—NOTICEABLE ME

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," a wild, uninhibited and funny program, joined the NBC lineup Monday night.

The premiere consisted of eight gags, satirical gags, topical gags, spoofs and heaven knows what else, all coming along so fast that they sometimes seemed to trip over each other.

To give an idea of the profusion—not to mention confusion—the program started with a satire on the typical big town cocktail party. The camera zipped around the roomful of guests, each with a funny line or two. Sample conversation:

Gentleman: "What do you think of Red China?"

Lady: "On a blue table cloth I think it looks lovely."

Sometimes when a sight gag was in progress, a printed "bulletin" moved across the screen, notifying the audience that "Lassie is a boy," or that "Howard Hughes is alive and has bought Argentina."

Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, two easy-mannered and droll fellows, strolled casually through all the activity. They worked in sketches and they engaged in short dialogues.

Not all the sketches worked perfectly. One that mistook a White House bedroom scene that wound up in a pillow fight among characters called Lynda Bird, Everett, Bobby and Teddy, while another character with a strong Texas accent lustily appealed for peace and order.

The show was funny, fast and furions. ABC's special, "Everett Dirksen's Washington" was an informal stroll with the 72-year-old Senate minority leader and Howard K. Smith through some of the historic rooms of the nation's capitol where as a representative and later as senator from Illinois, Dirksen has spent most of the past 35 years.

The senator, putting aside his oratorical style, spoke of American history, his own recollections of events and men who ranged from William Jennings Bryan to the last five presidents. It was a most delightful hour.

Canadian Leads Win for Wildcats

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bobby Croft, one of Canada's biggest southern exports, has stirred up an international crisis — for Kentucky and Baron Adolph Rupp.

Croft, a 6-foot-10 Tennessee sophomore from Hamilton, Ont., fired in 20 points as the sixth-ranked Vols handed ninth-ranked Kentucky its worst basketball setback in 18 years Monday night, obliterating the Wildcats 87-59.

It was the biggest margin of defeat for a Kentucky team since 1950, when City College of New York humbled the Wildcats 89-50 in the National Invitation Tournament.

Tennessee's 32nd consecutive home court victory sent the Vols into a first-place tie with Idle Louisiana State in the Southeastern Conference race. Tennessee is 11-2 on the season and 5-1 in the SEC.

Kentucky, 10-4 over-all, fell into a fourth place tie with Vanderbilt at 4-3, as Rupp failed for the second time in a row to match the all-time victory mark of 771 held by Kansas' Phog Allen.

Another SEC giant, 6-10 soph Neal Walk of Florida, wrecked Georgia with 33 points and 25 rebounds in a 90-63 Gator romp at Gainesville, Fla. The victory gave Florida a 7-3 conference record and a 10-6 season mark. Mississippi State upended visiting Alabama 72-69 in another SEC struggle.

Eight of The Associated Press' Top Ten teams had the night off, but three Ohio powers boosted their national stock. Cincinnati, 12-3, trimmed Missouri Valley Conference rival Memphis State 75-58 in overtime on the losers' court. Toledo, 10-3, crushed Coast Guard 88-47 at home and Ohio State, 9-3, outscored Georgia Tech 66-55 at Columbus, Ohio.

Visiting North Carolina State whipped Jacksonville 69-52 while Chicago Loyola and Michigan breezed to home-court victories, the Ramblers routing Windsor, Ont., 105-52 and the Wolverines belting Ball State 99-75.

Other home floor winners were Weber, by an 88-73 margin over Colorado State University, and East Tennessee, by a 61-53 count over East Carolina.

John Howard's 33 points led Cincinnati past Memphis State, winless in six MVC starts, in a game marked by five technical fouls — two of them against the home club after fans tossed litter on the court in the last minute of overtime.

Steve Nix poured in 18 of his game-high 24 points in the first 12 minutes of play, triggering Toledo's runaway victory over outmanned Coast Guard.

Dave Sorenson sent Ohio State ahead to stay with a three-point play in the opening minute and finished with 21 points. The Buckeyes shot 56 per cent from the floor in overpowering Georgia Tech.

Yerger Plays Two Games Wednesday

Yerger will play two games in Jones Field House her Wednesday night, January 24.

The first game starts at 6:30 p.m. and pairs the Junior teams of Yerger and Columbia of Magnolia. The second contest will pair the senior teams of the two schools.

More About Bradley's Challenge

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

So Bradley would like another chance against the Hope Lady Cats, as anyone involved could have suspected was coming. But they're going to have a hard time convincing the Lady Cats to provide the other half of the "dream match."

This writer readily acknowledges that the Bradley Bearettes are one heckuva team, and their coach is among the best. But our Lady Cats beat them only once in four tries, and that once was only by 61-60 on a night when every girl on the Hope team played the best game of her life.

This ought to be enough for Bradley, but it's easy to see their point. Put yourself in the position of being a citizen of Bradley, a town which is immensely proud of the fact that their Senior Girls are perennially queens of girls basketball in Arkansas. Therefore, when a team with a tradition like the Bearettes' winning streak loses a game, it has to be a bitter pill.

Recall the Hope-Prentiss football game back in September, when the Curley Wolves topped the Bobcats 14-6, marking the first time the boys from Prescott had outdone Hope on the football field in nearly forty years. That one was hard to take, but the Bobcats know that they have another chance next year. It is this chance that Bradley wants.

The only distracting thing about the letter of yesterday from Bradley, though, is the reference that their coach attempted to reset the game for Saturday night, (two days later) due to the flu in their city. The actual rescheduling attempt by Bearette Coach Leo Johnson wasn't made until the day before the game and the day itself. So much publicity had been placed on the game already, including radio broadcasting commitments, that the contest by that time could not be moved. Doing so would have been like moving the Super Bowl to a Wednesday night.

But don't even ask the question, "Has Hope improved since they lost to the Bradley girls by 36 points?" How many times in the last four years have the Hope Lady Cats scored 19 points in a whole game and hit 15 per cent of their shots? If you check the records, you will find that either circumstance only occurred once during that period, and that was at Bradley last November 21 in the "36 point loss."

As far as the inquiry about the improvement goes, its interrogator probably has not seen the Lady Cats play in a long, long time. Does any team improve from their third game to their 23rd, or is Hope's 18-4 record just luck? Nevertheless, Bradley most likely won't get their wish this time. Lady Cat Coach Charlotte Gibson stated, though, that the team's answer to the letter from Bradley will be sent by tomorrow, and a copy of the reply will be given to the Hope Star for printing.

Tart Adjusts Quickly to New Teammates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It didn't take Lavern Tart long to adjust to his new teammates.

Tart, the American Basketball Association's leading scorer, traded to New Jersey from Oakland last week, tossed in 28 points to spark the Americans to their eighth victory in nine starts, a 111-104 decision over Houston Monday night.

In the only other ABA game, Kentucky downed Indiana 100-91. There were no games scheduled in the National Basketball Association.

In his first game with New Jersey Sunday, Tart had only six points, but Monday night he showed why he's the league's top scorer, converting 12 of 13 free throws and eight field goals.

New Jersey's accurate foul shooting proved the difference as the Americans held on to stop a late Maverick rally. The Americans saw their 92-75 third-period lead dwindle to 94-89 after six minutes of the last quarter, before recovering. Willie Somerset topped Houston with 34 points, Walt Simon had 20 for the winners.

Kentucky stopped Indiana for the first time in five games triggered by hot-shooting Darrel Carrier's 33 points. The Colonels led by only 45-43 at halftime but moved farther ahead behind Carrier and Randy Mahaffey in the second half and were never headed.

Central Is Beaten, Still Rated Best

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Little Rock Central suffered its first loss of the season last week at the hands of the Blytheville Chicks but still retain a solid grip on first place in the Associated Press Arkansas high school basketball poll.

The Tigers had rung up 13 victories in a row before falling to the Chicks, who connected on 69 per cent of their shots from the field.

Blytheville moved from seventh to fourth on the basis of its victory.

Central got 10 of the 12 first place votes and Fort Smith Northside got the other two. Northside and Greenbrier continue to hold down the second and third slots.

El Dorado, which was fourth last week, lost to North Little Rock and fell to ninth. North Little Rock won twice and made the biggest advance — from tenth to fifth.

Magnolia Columbia added two more victories but dropped a notch to sixth. Hot Springs advanced from ninth to seventh and unbeaten Turrell remains eighth.

Texarkana is the only newcomer to the select group, climbing into the tenth spot.

The Swimming Duke Dies at the Age of 77

HONOLULU (AP) — Duke Kahanamoku, Olympic swimming champion, sheriff, movie actor and to many the symbol of Hawaii, is dead at 77.

Sports writers dubbed him "the Bronze Duke of Waikiki" for his prowess as a sprint swimmer in Olympic Games from 1912 to 1928.

"I started swimming before I can remember," Duke said once.

He retained his powerful physique — 6-foot-1, 200 pounds — and with long, iron-gray hair, cut an impressive figure in later years as Honolulu's greeter.

Duke collapsed at the Waikiki Yacht Club Monday and died in Kaiser Hospital an hour later. Doctors blamed heart disease.

A close friend said Kahanamoku would receive the beach-boy funeral he wanted: At sea off Waikiki, beyond the reef.

Duke swam and rode the surfboard on Waikiki's waves until recent years when he was asked to taper off because of a heart condition. Since then, he had taken to sailing.

He won the Olympic swimming crowns in 1912 and 1920 and was a top contender in the sprints in the 1924 and 1928 games.

His records included the 50-yard freestyle, the 100-yard freestyle and the 100-meter freestyle.

Sports writers commented that the Duke's records might have been even better, except that he swam only fast enough to win.

Duke went to Hollywood in 1925 and stayed until 1933. He once said, "I played all kinds of chiefs — Polynesian chiefs, Aztec chiefs, Indian chiefs, all kinds of chiefs."

Among his roles were parts in "Wake of the Red Witch" and "Mr. Roberts."

One of the most spectacular stories about Duke's swimming exploits was a water rescue in 1935.

Duke was camping on the beach with a party of actors when the yacht Thelma capsized under the battering of heavy ground swells off Newport Beach, Calif.

Duke made three trips on his

Houston Is Rated Best in Nation

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Houston Cougars, kings of the hill for the first time this season after their stunning 71-69 victory over UCLA, are not likely to be knocked off their lofty position — not for a while, anyway.

It would take a small miracle for it to happen this week because the Cougars, now 17-0, take on a small-college team, Lamar Tech, in their only start this week.

Lamar Tech is 4-11, a record not calculated to frighten the tenacious Cougars. The teams play Saturday on Houston's court.

The Cougars, who ended UCLA's unbeaten string at 47 games last Saturday night took over first place from the Bruins in the weekly Associated Press poll. The margin was decisive in the voting by a national panel of 35 sports writer and broadcasters.

Houston collected 32 votes for the leading position and three for second place while UCLA had only three for the No. 1 spot and 32 for second. On points, the Cougars led 347 to 318.

The Bruins had topped the poll each week since the start of the 1967-68 campaign.

North Carolina held third place in the latest poll with 270 points followed by New Mexico, 204 and St. Bonaventure, 174. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

Rounding out the Top Ten in order were Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Columbia, Kentucky and Utah.

New Mexico, St. Bonaventure, Vanderbilt and Columbia registered the biggest gains, each advancing two places. New Mexico and St. Bonaventure are unbeaten in 16 and 13 games, respectively.

Tennessee slipped two rungs to sixth after splitting two games with Florida. Kentucky, beaten by Auburn, fell from eighth to ninth while Utah, which lost to New Mexico and Wyoming, dropped from fifth to 10th.

UCLA has two games on tap this week — against Holy Cross Friday night and Boston College Saturday night, both in Madison Square Garden.

North Carolina plays Georgia Tech Saturday. New Mexico is not scheduled. St. Bonaventure faces Detroit Tuesday night and St. Francis, Pa. Thursday night.

The Top Ten through games of Jan. 20 with first-place votes in parentheses and total points:

1. Houston (32) 347
2. UCLA (3) 318
3. North Carolina 270
4. New Mexico 204
5. St. Bonaventure 174
6. Tennessee 139
7. Vanderbilt 92
8. Columbia 73
9. Kentucky 59
10. Utah 53

When Duke returned to Hawaii, he was elected sheriff of the city-county of Honolulu in 1934, 1936 and 1938 as a Democrat and then continued to win the post as a Republican.

NBA Will Go to Phoenix, Milwaukee

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association owners peered into their crystal ball, saw a league with 18 teams and decided to go where the action isn't.

For that reason, most likely more than any other, they saw Milwaukee, Wis., and Phoenix, Ariz., in their future. These cities, both without a major league professional team in any sport, were selected as the 13th and 14th teams in the NBA Monday. They will start play next season.

"I like cities that don't have so much going on," said Ben Kerner, owner of the St. Louis Hawks, who were the Milwaukee Hawks from 1951 to 1955.

In Milwaukee, "It's the only game in town" except for the Marquette college basketball and the few games the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League play there, said Marvin L. Fishman, one of the eight principal owners of the Milwaukee franchise.

"We decided it wasn't in our best interests to go into American Basketball Association cities," said Walter Kennedy, president of the NBA. "The market wouldn't be big enough with two pro basketball teams."

"Milwaukee just wasn't ready before," he said, and Fishman

East Favored in NBA Cage Star Game

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Expansion, a lost scoring leader and a fallen star have taken some of the twinkle from the West team and made the East a strong favorite tonight in the National Basketball Association All-Star game at Madison Square Garden.

An expected sellout crowd of 18,500 along with a nation-wide television audience (ABC), will watch the 18th annual classic in which the stars of the Eastern Division hold an 11-6 edge over those of the Western Division. Game time is 8:30 p.m., EST.

The East is favored by 10 points to wipe out last year's 135-120 upset at San Francisco, partly because of what the East has, and partly because of what the West is missing.

In last year's game, Rick Barry scored 38 points and Dave DeBusschere 22 and Nate Thurmond hauled in 18 rebounds to lead the West. None of the three will play for the West tonight, and neither will Dave Bing, the league's leading scorer.

Barry, who jumped from the San Francisco Warriors to Oakland of the American Basketball Association, won't even be in the West.

Alex Hannum of Philadelphia, who coached the West in two previous losses, will handle the East squad while Bill Sharman of San Francisco makes his All-Star coaching debut for the West.

noted that the Hawks had very bad playing dates and a team that finished last all four seasons in Milwaukee.

The situation in Phoenix is almost the same. All it has is a team in the Western Hockey League.

"I think we are well on the way toward becoming a major big league sports center," Gov. Jack Williams said. Mayor Milton Graham echoed the enthusiasm, saying the area will benefit tremendously from the national publicity.

Phoenix, which will be in the Western Division of the NBA, will play in the 12,500-seat Phoenix Coliseum, Milwaukee, in the Eastern Division, will play in the 11,148-seat Milwaukee Arena.

New Teams Hope for Good Players

NEW YORK (AP) — The new National Basketball Association franchises in Phoenix and Milwaukee hope they can come up with expansion draft picks as good as Seattle did last year when they grabbed Walt Hazzard.

Hazzard, exposed by Los Angeles and snatched up by the SuperSonics in the last NBA expansion draft, is the league's second leading scorer according to official statistics released today.

Detroit's Dave Bing continues to lead all scorers with 1,363 points and a 27.8 average. Hazzard is second with 1,198 and 23 points per game. Then comes Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain with 1,170 and 23.9 followed by Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati with 1,134 and 23.8.

Robertson, who leads in average points per game, also tops the free throw percentage category with 346 of 400 for .865. Chamberlain is tops in field goal percentage with 473 of 834 for .567 and in rebounds with 1,189 recoveries, an average of 24.3 per game. Len Wilkens of St. Louis leads in assists with 414.

Gary Beban Collects More Honors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Beban, UCLA's All-America quarterback, picked up some more silverware Monday night and in the process dropped a subtle hint to the pros.

The 21-year-old passer wants to play professional football, but not with just any team in the National or American Football Leagues.

"I won't name the teams I'd rather not play for," said Beban in an interview before he was honored by the Maxwell Football Club as the outstanding college player of the year, "but they know who they are. I've answered their questionnaires."

Johnny Unitas, Baltimore's All-National Football League quarterback, was honored by the Maxwell Club as the top pro player of the year. He won the honor for the third time, the only player to gain more than once the trophy awarded in memory of the late NFL commissioner Bert Bell.

Beban, who led UCLA to a 24-5-2 record in his three years at quarterback, indicated he isn't playing hard to get. He's used to playing with a winner and doesn't want to struggle with an expansion team or one in the cellar of either league.

The combined NFL-AFL football draft is scheduled for New York on Jan. 30 and the chances are that one of the lower teams will grab Beban in the first round. He could be No. 1.

Beban wouldn't criticize the pro draft but said, "It really does place a lot of limitations on the player. But there are ways of informing a team if you don't want to play for them."

The Blevins Sr. girls led all the way defeating Okolona 61-22. Lou Turnage hit 26 points and Janice Hugg had 21 points for Blevins. Stanber had 11 points for Okolona.

Blevins Jr. boys pulled out for a 49-22 win over Okolona. Tommy Webb hit for 15 points, Scotty Schulz hit 11 points, and Randy Stroud and Tommy Taylor each had 9 for Blevins. Stovall hit 14 points for Okolona.

Cambodia Says 3 Americans Killed in Fight

By EDDIE ADAMS
Associated Press Photographer
KOMPONG TRABEK, Cambodia (AP) — Newsmen inspecting the area where Cambodia says it repulsed a U.S.-South Vietnamese attack found two bloody bandages, some insect repellent containers marked "U.S." and hundreds of .30-caliber shell casings.

Some of the ground was splattered with "dried blood" and the trees were shredded and blackened around the bullet-pocked fortified outpost where the press chief of the Cambodian Ministry of Information took newsmen for a briefing on the incident last Thursday.

Cambodian officials say their forces killed three Americans and 20 South Vietnamese who they charge penetrated about 100 yards into Cambodia and fired at Cambodian soldiers who had been sleeping outside the post.

The outpost is northwest of Saigon in an area where the border is poorly marked and disputed, but the U.S. State Department in Washington acknowledged Monday that a U.S.-South Vietnamese patrol had intruded 75 yards inside Cambodian territory last Thursday.

It sent formal regrets for any Cambodian casualties that may have resulted. The incident occurred "during the heat of battle," in which the allied patrol was defending itself from Viet Cong gunfire coming from both sides of the border, said Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer.

"We regret the intrusion," he said, "it was unintended and undertaken without any hostile intent."

It was the first officially acknowledged case of allied forces applying the principle stated a week ago by Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy — that American forces would exercise the right to defend themselves if Communist forces used Cambodia as a base for attacking American forces in Vietnam and as a sanctuary for retreat.

Figures It Was Worth Every Penny

By PETER O'LAUGHLIN

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Her luggage strayed to New Zealand and she had only 50 cents and a Malaysian dollar left from $1,400, but "it was worth every penny," said the perky California girl on the home stretch of a 20,000 mile, one week trip for a weekend in Malaysia.

"It's been great. I'll be back to work Tuesday morning," said red-haired, 23-year-old Karyl Ousley with a big grin as she stretched her legs during a stop-over Monday at Bangkok Airport.

She left Los Angeles last Tuesday and stayed the night in Honolulu, where she discovered her luggage and two-foot-high "green and orange stuffed elephant with plaid ears" she was carrying as a gift had been flown by mistake to New Zealand.

Airborne again, she flew into Tokyo for 20 minutes, Hong Kong for one hour, Bangkok overnight, Singapore for two hours and then to Malacca, on the west coast of Malaysia.

She spent two days in Malacca visiting a pair of American friends in the Peace Corps. She attended a Malaysian dance, rode in a horse cart, stayed with a Malaysian family in their compound, snapped photographs and was airborne again Sunday night for Singapore and the whole trip in reverse.

Miss Ousley is a $475 a month cost accountant for an engineering firm in Pasadena.

"I would have stayed longer," she said, "but that would have cut into my vacation time for next summer and then I'm planning three weeks in Germany." Wearing moccasins, black stretch pants, flowered blouse and suede jacket, the bouncy traveler said the trip was "superbly to see my friends, but really was just for kicks. It was exciting, I just like that kind of thing. I hate to do what everybody else does."

U.S. Searches for Four Lost H-Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Searchers using dogsleds and helicopters continue hunting in the icy polar darkness seven miles off Thule, Greenland, for perhaps as many as four U.S. hydrogen bombs lost in the fiery crash of a B52 bomber.

The Pentagon would not say Monday how many nuclear bombs were aboard the plane when it crashed Sunday. But sources said it was probably four of the 1.1 million megaton type, with a total explosive equivalent of more than 4.4 million tons of dynamite — a force thousands of times greater than that which incinerated Hiroshima in World War II.

The Pentagon said the devices weren't armed "so there is no danger of a nuclear explosion at the crash site." In its brief statement the Defense Department did not speculate on chances of recovering the bombs but other sources said recovery was doubtful.

Denmark, which owns Greenland, asked the United States for an explanation of the incident.

Denmark forbids flights of planes bearing nuclear bombs over her territory. But Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag said it was impossible to prevent emergency landings such as the plane was attempting when it hurtled into the thick ice of North Star Bay.

In Copenhagen, Danes staged a protest demonstration at the U.S. Embassy.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow the crash was a "dangerous accident."

One crewman was killed in the crash. Seven others parachuted to safety.

Searchers worked with light provided by flares in temperatures well below zero and headed across the ice six to nine feet thick in the bay, where some wreckage had been sighted.

But the Pentagon said other parts of the plane, heated in the fire of the crash, "may have burned into or through the ice" and disappeared in the 800-foot water depth to the sea floor.

The $10 million plane, based at the Plattsburgh (N.Y.) Air Force Base 2,000 miles away, was on patrol duty that is part of the continuing U.S. bomber flights along the northern route in readiness for possible war.

The crash site is in northwest Greenland, a desolate area which has no sunlight most of the day. It is home for three or four hundred Eskimos who live by hunting polar bears and walrus. There are a hospital and some other facilities at Thule manned by Danes.

The surviving airman were taken to the hospital at U.S. Air Force Base, also at Thule. The plane had been trying to reach the base when it crashed.

The case of the missing bombs erupted on the eve of Denmark's national elections.

Left-wingers in Copenhagen demonstrated in the streets Monday after word of the incident came out. About 50 demonstrators carried placards outside the American Embassy which read: "No Nuclear Weapons on Danish Soil."

McClellan Calls for End to TFX Financing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following a new call in Congress for junking of the Navy's version of the controversial TFX jet fighter, the plane's manufacturer predicts it will prove to be "a superior weapons system."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., urged Monday in a Senate speech an end to federal financing of the F11B, Navy version of the TFX.

"I cannot believe that Congress will appropriate and continue to spend money out of the federal Treasury to accommodate the whim of those who are blind and cannot see, or, seeing, would obstinately persist in wasting the taxpayers' dollar on an airplane that is a flop," said McClellan.

His statement came just a few hours after the Navy disclosed it is studying proposals submitted by four companies for a plane to replace the F11B.

The statement by McClellan, who long has opposed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's decision to provide the supersonic, swing-wing TFX for both Air Force and Navy use, drew a quick response from General Dynamics, the manufacturer.

In Fort Worth, Tex., company president Frank W. Davis called it "incongruous to cancel the F11B before it has a chance to prove its worth to the Navy."

U.S. Urged to Act to End Copper Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress members from the nation's copper-producing states urge President Johnson to use muscle—with some favoring the Taft-Hartley Act—to end the 6½-month-old copper strike that has idled 60,000 workers.

Under Taft-Hartley, the President may seek a court injunction temporarily halting the strike for 80 days. If the court orders the cooling off period, a presidential fact-finding panel is created to study the dispute and offer recommendations for its solution.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery today that the strike is as much a national emergency as past situations in which Taft-Hartley was invoked.

But Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., in whose district lie the nation's richest copper mines, said the Taft-Hartley Act "can't be invoked because there is no shortage of copper endangering the nation."

Olsen said copper stockpiles "are still big" and that domestic companies aren't hurting yet. However, he said, the President should "use all the pressure his office can bear" to end the shutdown.

Olsen said he favored a presidential fact-finding board "and he ought to use a little muscle on management and labor."

Olsen criticized the companies as "enjoying tremendous profits with the inflated price of copper" while employees suffer because of no work.

"I remember when (President John F.) Kennedy got the steel leaders out of bed in the night because of a $2 a ton increase in steel, but this increase in the price of copper is $500 a ton," Olsen said.

Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., in urging Monday that Johnson invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, said 10,000 workers are idle in his state and "it will take most of them 30 years or more to make up the wages lost so far."

Issues in the strike vary since a number of companies and unions are involved. But Kennecott Copper Corp., largest domestic producer, claims the unions are asking for more than $1 an hour increase in wages and benefits. The company says it has offered a 50.6-cent package.

MODERN MOSCOW is beginning to look, at least in parts, like an up-to-date Western city. One of the most striking new buildings in the Soviet capital is the Home of Books, above. But inside, below, it's not so exciting. Merchandise runs heavily to pedestrian portraits of Soviet leaders.

Lunar Module Performs Gracefully

By LAWRENCE LEE
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The ugly-duckling spacecraft built to set Americans on the moon—Lunar Module 1—performed so gracefully in Monday's maiden flight that the next one launched probably will be used by men, top space agency officials said today.

"This was a remarkably good next step on the way to the moon," said Dr. George Mueller after the debut trip of the last piece of hardware to be qualified for the lunar journey. Mueller is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's associate administrator for manned spaceflight.

Mueller and his colleagues were so pleased that they all but ruled out a proposed duplicate test in late spring, opening the way for Apollo astronauts to use the next lunar module in a deep space exercise early in 1969, year of the moon.

The seven-hour, 52-minute flight Monday was flawed only by an abbreviated firing of the rocket to be used to make a gentle moon landing.

As the orbiting moonship coasted over the Indian Ocean, that engine started up. But a touchy computer aboard sensed low fuel pressure and shut it off. Mueller said an astronaut in the ship could have whipped the problem in no time flat. "Unfortunately, there wasn't a man there," he said.

At the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, controllers reached for an anthology of emergency mission plans for a trip the space agency warned in advance was too risky to follow a rigid course.

The alternate scheme they chose was based on an old and less ambitious flight plan, but was an initiation tough enough to qualify the ship for astronauts.

On the second try, the back-down engine performed at full thrust and then at 10 per cent of full thrust, exactly as controllers told it to. The change of plan ruled out a test of how it would work at thrust rates in between.

Then, in the most crucial checkout, the craft's getaway engine began firing while the descent rocket still burned. This "fire in the hole" test duplicated the procedure astronauts would follow in lifting away from a potentially hazardous lunar touchdown. The lunar module passed it perfectly.

Free of its landing stage, which would be a launch platform on the moon, the passenger's ascent engine fired for 2½ minutes. This was a test of the lunar takeoff which start two astronauts from the moon to the Apollo command ship waiting to carry them home to earth.

Scientists said that final surge apparently consumed the craft to destruction by fiery twenty into the atmosphere, but no plane were possible or planned for recovery of the ship, which was built to operate only in space.

Korean Red Killers Still Elude Pursuers

By K.C. HWANG
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL (AP) — A South Korean soldier was killed Monday night in one of several shooting encounters as a North Korean assassination team that invaded Seoul continued to elude pursuers.

The joint antiespionage operations headquarters said early today that none of the 25 armed Communists still at large had been killed or captured.

The 31-man team slipped into Seoul Sunday night with orders, a captured North Korean said, to kill President Chung Hee Park and other high officials.

The group killed one policeman and five civilians near Park's residence, and a sixth civilian wounded in the shooting died Monday.

Five of the Communist infiltrators were killed and one was captured by late Monday.

The South Korean Army said during a brief skirmish Monday night with an unknown number of gunmen on the northern outskirts of Seoul. South Korean military and police forces kept after the intruders.

North Korea's Radio Pyongyang claimed that the raiders were South Koreans who wanted to overthrow the president.

But the Seoul government held a news conference to exhibit the captured member of the band, who said he was 2nd Lt. Kim Shin-cho, 25, and that he and his 30 teammates were members of a specially trained Communist guerrilla force.

Kim said the team's "sole mission was to attack the Blue House (the presidential mansion), kill President Chung Hee Park and shoot to death other key personnel."

He said the North Koreans each carried a revolver, a sub-machine gun and 300 rounds of ammunition, eight grenades and an antitank mine. They crossed the demilitarized zone in a sector guarded by the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division at 10 p.m. Thursday, cutting through a chain-link fence the Americans had built to deter sneak attacks, he said.

Kim said they moved on without difficulty until they came upon four accidents Friday afternoon. They threatened the accidents with a brutal reprisal if they informed South Korean or U.S. authorities. But after the raiders went on, the accidents did inform authorities, and a massive dragnet was spread.

400 Years of Bitterness Being Buried

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — More than 400 years of bitterness and suspicion are being officially buried tonight when the archbishop of Canterbury preaches from the foremost Roman Catholic pulpit in Britain.

Dr. Michael Ramsey, primate of the Church of England, goes to vast red-brick Westminster Cathedral by special invitation from John Cardinal Heenan, Roman Catholic archbishop of Westminster.

Priests of both churches have sometimes exchanged pulpits since Pope John XXIII launched the most powerful movement toward unity the Roman Church has ever known. The bishops on both sides held aloof until this week.

The 1968 worldwide week of prayer for Christian unity, sponsored by the World Council of Churches Jan. 18-25, is bringing them closer together.

The archbishop of Canterbury and Cardinal Heenan are old friends. The cardinal is a frequent dinner guest at Lambeth Palace and Dr. Ramsey goes to Archbishop's House at Westminster. The primate's appearance in a Roman Catholic pulpit sets the public seal on what they have long sought at a personal level.

Diet Pill Too Profitable, Says Senator

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart says the diet-pill industry "sprang up because some few doctors find it more profitable to give pills rather than urge proper diet."

The Michigan Democrat, chairman of the Senate Antitrust subcommittee, said it's a multimillion-dollar industry "and one about which the American people need information and perhaps protection."

Hart's comments were in a statement prepared for the opening today of his subcommittee's hearings into the diet-pill industry.

He said the subcommittee has reason to believe antitrust violations may have occurred in what he termed industry's drive for profits. And interwoven with these legal questions, he said, are others involving the health and safety of millions of overweight Americans.

Dr. Frederick Wolff, director of research at the Washington Hospital Center, warned of the dangers of amphetamines, described by Hart as the primary drug used by diet doctors.

Dr. Norman D. Gross, a family physician from Hartford, Conn., said obese persons are "in far greater danger from improper weight control methods and the use of potent combination drugs than the inherent dangers of being overweight."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Heinrich Schliemann, who became the father of modern archeology after pursuing a business career until his mid-40s, devoted himself to excavating Homeric sites to fulfill a life-long ambition. The World Almanac notes that Schliemann, credited with discovering the site of Troy in 1873 at Hisarlik, Turkey, actually dug past the city and unearthed a pre-Mycenaean city of greater antiquity, which he mistook for Troy.

Duplicate bridge for novices is becoming popular in many cities. In New York the Greater New York Bridge Association runs novice games in connection with each tournament. In other places various duplicate clubs run novice games in addition to regular ones, but a combination of the St. Paul Dispatch Pioneer Press with Leo and Reine Seewald has produced one of the most successful of these programs. Once a week there is a duplicate with an A section for experienced players and a B section for novices. The section B game starts at eight, but Mrs. Seewald lectures to the players for an hour before the game begins.

New players keep coming in, and the only attraction is due to the fact that players keep graduating to the A section.

Today's hand caused a lot of interest in this novice game. There is little of importance in the play. North-South can make five hearts if South finesses for the heart queen, but with nine trumps the play for the drop is usually superior (it isn't this time) and 11 novices who played in hearts made exactly ten tricks.

At some tables East was allowed to play a spade part score and would make three odd. At those tables where North-South bid four hearts, South was allowed to play the hand there and tied for top score. Those Easts who got to play at spade part scores tied for top their way, while average scores went to those who played heart part scores.

The bidding proceeded mostly with no East-West interference and went: One heart, two diamonds, two hearts, three or four hearts, pass. We must blame those North players who bid only three hearts for missing the game.

The bidding in the box is how it would be likely to go in an expert game. West would double although his action is not clear-cut, and after the double East would defend at four spades. South would double, but the score of plus 100 would still be a bad one because even a heart part score would be worth more in duplicate.

West North East South
Pass 2♥ Pass 3♥
You, South, hold:
♠ 5 4 ♥ K 10 7 ♦ A 8 5 4 ♣ Q 6 3 2

What do you do now?

A—Pass. You had planned further action when you merely bid three hearts, but maybe your partner doesn't have much of a two bid and you should settle for the sure game.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding four hearts, your partner rebids to three spades. What do you do now?

Body Doesn't Store Up Vitamin B-12 Supply

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My husband has pernicious anemia and is getting injections of vitamin B-12. Would the tablets be just as good?

A—A recent study showed that in persons with pernicious anemia a switch to vitamin B-12 by mouth resulted in a progressive fall in the blood level of this vitamin even though the dose taken by mouth was much larger than the injected dose. This increased the risk of serious complications.

Q—Are tests for pernicious anemia always reliable? What is the Schilling test? What causes pernicious anemia? Can too much vitamin B-12 be taken?

A—The diagnosis of pernicious anemia is based on such characteristic symptoms as weakness, sore tongue and numbness or tingling of the fingers. It is confirmed by finding a low red blood cell count, abnormal red cells and a decreased concentration of hemoglobin.

In the Schilling test, radioactive vitamin B-12 is given by mouth and the amount excreted in the urine is measured after an injection of non-radioactive vitamin B-12. A normal person will excrete 11 to 26 per cent of the radioactive vitamin but a person with pernicious anemia will excrete less than 7 per cent. The results of any laboratory test are only as reliable as the person performing the test. That is why a doctor never bases his diagnosis on a single test or on laboratory findings alone.

The cause of pernicious anemia is not known but a hereditary factor appears to be present in some cases. Since vitamin B-12 is not stored in the body, you can't take too much of it.

Q—I am bothered with tingling and numbness in my fingers. What causes this? Is there any treatment for it?

A—This may be caused by pernicious anemia, diseases of the circulation, Raynaud's disease and diseases of the nervous system. The treatment would depend on the cause.

Q—What is meant by hypoplastic anemia? What is the best treatment? Is it a form of cancer?

A—Hypoplastic or aplastic anemia results when the bone marrow fails to produce new red cells as fast as the old ones wear out. Transfusions are often necessary but they will not cure the disease. Although this is not a form of cancer it may be associated with leukemia, which is. It may also be associated with diseases of the spleen. The only cure is removal of the cause.

For Passengers Only

Passengers on a trolley or a train, a taxi or a bus, get more than a ride for their money. They also get the benefit of a special legal status. As passengers on a public carrier, they are entitled to an extra measure of care for their safety.

In case of accident, this privileged status may make the difference between collecting a goodly sum as damages and collecting nothing at all. But to qualify, you must indeed be a "passenger"—as that term is defined by the law.

At what moment, legally, do you become a passenger, entitled to this special protection? Consider this case:

A bus driver, failing to see a woman coming up the steps of his bus, shut the door on her leg. When she claimed damages for the resulting injury, the bus company protested that she had not acquired the status of a passenger because she had not actually entered the bus.

Nevertheless, the court upheld her claim.

"The law is not so narrow," said the judge, "as to conceive of the relation of carrier and passenger only when a person is actually on board. To the contrary, the law deems that relation to exist when one is properly on the steps entering."

On the other hand, a man waiting at a sidewalk bus stop was held not yet a passenger as the bus was pulling up to the curb. At that moment he was jostled against the bus and injured. Lacking the status of a passenger, he failed in his efforts to make the bus company pay his doctor bills.

After you are once on board, how long does the passenger status continue? Generally it ends when you disembark—but only if you are let off in a place of comparative safety.

In one case a cab driver discharged two children into a busy street, and a passing car struck them down. The cab company was duly held liable for the accident because the children, not having been delivered to a safe place, were still passengers in the eyes of the law.

If you are let off at a carrier's depot, you ordinarily remain a passenger until leaving the premises. But not if you linger there too long.

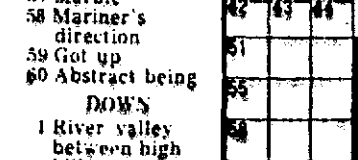

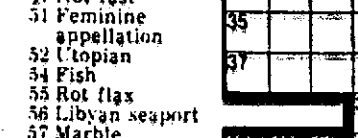

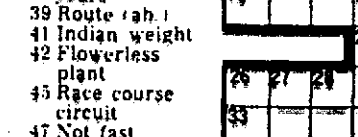

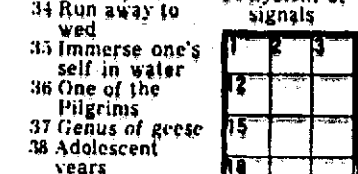

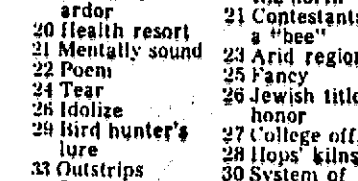

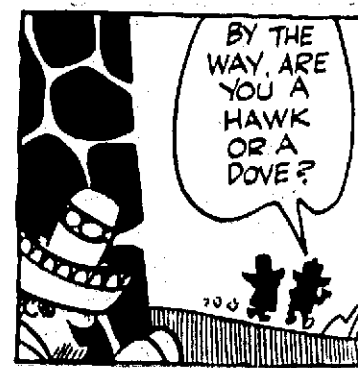

For example, a man who was injured after remaining at a bus depot for almost two hours, waiting to be picked up by a friend, was held to have lost his passenger status.

The court reasoned that, after so much delay, the man had shed his special rank and had become just another member of the public.

Nixon Ruled Out of Race by Romney

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney virtually rules out of the race for the Republican presidential nomination anyone but himself and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"I think the contest is basically going to be between the two of us," Romney said Sunday. He discounted the possibility a late entrant into the GOP sweepstakes could take the prize, saying: "I don't think those who hold back in the hopes that lightning will strike will figure in this. They will be too late."

Romney declined to specify possible late-blooming candidates, but his comments could have applied to one of his major backers—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Some Republican moderates have been urging Rockefeller to enter the campaign if Romney is defeated in the early primaries. Thus far the New Yorker has said he'll stick with Romney and can't foresee any possibility that would make him run.

The Gallup Poll reported Sunday that Rockefeller has nearly doubled his popularity among GOP voters since November but that Nixon remains the choice of party members by 42 to 27 per cent in a January sampling.

The same poll showed Romney with 12 per cent and California Gov. Ronald Reagan with 8. Romney's campaign to win the nation's first primary, New Hampshire's on March 12, was reported off to "an encouraging start" by Leonard W. Hall, his national campaign chairman. On the other side of the political fence, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota announced plans to carry his Democratic presidential nomination bid into New Hampshire this weekend. He'll campaign in Georgia and Massachusetts earlier in the week.

Meanwhile, some officials of the Americans for Democratic Action—a liberal alliance forged 20 years ago—predicted labor factions backing President Johnson may bolt the organization if it endorses McCarthy, a critic of Johnson's war policies. In other political developments:

—Nixon told an audience in Dallas Saturday that he'll announce in 12 days whether he will seek the nomination. He also advised Republicans to attack Johnson's policies rather than the President's personality.

—In St. Louis, Reagan denied once more he'll seek the presidency, saying the GOP has many good candidates "For me," he added, "I like the job I have."

—Romney opened his Wisconsin primary campaign Saturday with a mile-long jog, a round of informal rallies and criticism of Johnson's spending policies. He said America may face the need for an austerity program such as England's unless spending is cut.

—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said in a St. Paul, Minn., speech that he resents people who condemn America as immoral. Humphrey didn't name names, but McCarthy has called U.S. policy in Vietnam "morally unjustified."

—Any hopes candidates in either party had entertained that Congress might provide the financing for their campaigns appear dashed for this year at least. Even backers of a Senate proposal to set up federal financing of presidential contests admit its chances this election year are all but dead.

Romney Seems Determined to Stay in Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect that Michigan Gov. George Romney will carry on his fight for the GOP presidential nomination even if he loses early primaries has raised the specter of 1964 for Republican moderates.

Romney sounded like a man determined to stay in the contest no matter what reverses he may encounter when he said the race is between him and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

He added he doesn't believe "those who hold back in the hope that lightning is going to strike" will figure in the August convention decision.

Romney's views were voiced on ABC's "Issues and Answers" television program broadcast Sunday.

For the moderates, a Romney who persisted in his bid for the nomination after early primary defeats would present the same frustrating situation they encountered in 1964. Then, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller kept up the battle against Barry Goldwater until he lost the June primary in California.

No moderate wanted to split the primary votes with Rockefeller and thus insure Goldwater victories. Their last-minute effort to promote the candidacy of then-Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania collapsed in disaster.

This year the political tables have been turned and it is Rockefeller supporters who are standing in the wings wondering if the New York governor can be persuaded to change his mind and get into the race before it is too late.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, his brother, suggested in Denver, Colo., last Friday that Nelson Rockefeller might change his mind "if Romney drops out."

But moderates must ask themselves, "What happens if Romney doesn't drop out?" even if he is soundly trounced by Nixon in the March 12 New Hampshire primary, as current polls indicate he may be.

Rockefeller, who has said he isn't a candidate and doesn't want to be president, has committed his support to Romney. Could he abandon that position and permit himself to become a candidate on the basis of a single primary defeat for his man in New Hampshire?

If the New York governor's name is placed as expected on the May 28 Oregon primary ballot, he would have only until March 22 to withdraw it by filing an affidavit stating he is not a candidate and does not intend to become a candidate.

Several Republican governors think Rockefeller should move before it is too late.

These same governors fear that if Nixon should win all the primaries, he will have a bandwagon going that can't be stopped at the convention—despite any efforts of favorite sons to get together on an alternative candidate in the early balloting.

CC Dinner in Coliseum February 1

Tickets are now on sale for the annual Hope-Hempstead County Chamber of Commerce banquet next Thursday night, February 1, at 7 p.m. in the coliseum.

They may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce or from members of special committees headed by Dr. Lester Sitzes and Dr. Don Freel. These committees are having a contest to see who can sell the most tickets. The losers will be forced to eat beans at the banquet while the winners feast on steak, so it should be very easy to find tickets for sale. The price is three dollars per ticket.

Dr. Kenneth McFarland will be guest speaker for the occasion and will discuss many phases of American life.

Dr. McFarland is the author of the best-seller book, "Eloquence in Public Speaking".

He is also in the process of producing, in collaboration with Mr. Frank Emerson Harris, several booklets on preserving basic Americanism. These publications are popularly noted for their picture of moderate conservatism.

Mr. Harris is president of The Homemakers Guild Corporation.

Dr. McFarland's daughter, Kay, is a practicing attorney and is also a world champion show jumping rider. The McFarlands live on a horse farm and Dr. McFarland is also in the cattle business.

Like his travels, Kenneth McFarland's formal education has been nationwide. He earned his Bachelor's Degree from Pittsburgh State Teachers College in Kansas; he secured his Master's Degree at Columbia University in New York; and he obtained his Doctorate at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California.

Because of his ability to "sell America to Americans" he was named Outstanding Salesman of America in 1957 by the National Sales and Marketing Executives. The great demand for Dr. McFarland as a speaker enabled him to be presented a special flying award by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker for flying more than any other American on this country's domestic airlines.

Dr. McFarland served twenty-four years as a school executive, nine of which he was city superintendent of schools in Topeka. The McFarland Trade School in Coffeyville, Kansas, named in his honor, was designed and built by Dr. McFarland.

Dr. McFarland's wide range of interests makes him an interesting speaker for any age group. In fact, because of his rewarding influence on youth, twenty high school students will be guests of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the banquet.

Among the visiting dignitaries for the evening will be Governor Winthrop Rockefeller, head of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, executive director of the State Chamber of Commerce, Arkansas Power and Light, telephone company, Arkla Gas, and railroad representatives, congressmen, senators, and presidents and managers of chambers of commerce in surrounding areas.

Janice Russell and Charles Ward, who are assisting with publicity, will also be guests at the banquet. Janice is associate editor and Charles is editor-in-chief for the Hope Hi-Lights, The Town and Country Restaurant will cater the meal.

Recordings of some of Dr. McFarland's speeches are on loan from Dean Murphy to KXAR and excerpts are being played mornings.

Cherry was narrowly defeated by Orval Faubus, then beginning his 12-year reign as dictator. Dog Refuses to Leave Puppies

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP) — A dog saved four lives but refused to leave the house and died with her newborn pups.

Timothy Deer, 19, told firemen Monday that when his dog Candy's barks woke him he found the bedroom filled with smoke. He and his wife Cheryl, 18, carried their children, Tammy, 14 months, and Timothy Jr., 4 months, to safety through a window.

Deer said he could not get back into the house but that Candy could have left through a rear door. Firemen investigating the ruins said the dog had given birth to a litter of pups during the night.

Thinks Tax Increase Will Be 2 Months Late If It Passes at All

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Massachusetts Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee says President Johnson will get his proposed tax hike at least two months late— if he gets it at all.

And, Rep. James A. Burke told administration witnesses Monday, "You'd better put in a few sweeteners to have any chance at all."

Burke gave a frankly political analysis of the outlook to Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and other spokesmen for the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

He said an increase next year would come on top of a hike in the Social Security tax, already in effect, and "when you cut a man's pay twice in one year—look out."

"One of your problems," Burke went on, "is that many of us members face primaries before June 1. I tell you, I don't see much chance of passage before then." Johnson is seeking an April 1 effective date.

Burke suggested the administration consider broadening exemptions from the tax boost in the lower income brackets.

Burke was the only Democrat at the opening day of the committee's sessions to predict trouble for the bill. But several Republicans were critical, contending the administration was not economizing enough to insure that a tax increase would really cut the deficit.

Schultze replied off cutbacks he said were being made, including some in loans for farms, sewer and water projects and rural electrification; cancellation of some agricultural research projects and closing of research stations and reducing

Separate Jr. College Board Bill Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — state Sen. Clarence E. Bell of Parkin said Monday he is considering introducing a bill to create a separate state board to oversee the development of community junior colleges.

Bell made the statement during a meeting of the Education Committee of the Legislative Council.

E. L. Angell, executive director of the state Commission on Coordination of Higher Education Finance, said he felt the commission should be the group to oversee the junior colleges since the junior college program should be considered part of the overall higher education program in the state.

Biggest Dollar Advance in Nation's Economy, U.S. Officials Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy—already enjoying almost seven consecutive years without a recession—is now clicking off the biggest dollar advance in its history, says the government's chief economist.

But Gardner Ackley, outgoing chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, added Monday he isn't overly happy about it.

In a preview of the council's economic report, scheduled for submission to Congress later this month, Ackley said the nation's Gross National Product this year should increase by a record $61 billion over 1967.

This would mean a GNP for 1968 as a whole of $846 billion or about 7.75 per cent above last year.

GNP is the value of all goods and services produced in the economy and is the broadest yardstick of economic activity.

But Ackley told the House Ways and Means Committee, Congress must raise taxes to get the nation moving toward better balance and stable prices.

Even with higher taxes, Ackley said, the economy will have trouble with prices this year.

He forecast continuation of the wage-price spiral which he small watershed construction projects.

Other reductions, Schultze said, are being made by stretching out highway spending and construction projects by holding back $600 million from the states, reducing grants for higher education facilities and programs for hospitals, medical schools and other health facilities as well as the aid program for schools in areas impacted with government workers.

The nuclear program is being trimmed in reductions for nuclear excavation and controlled thermonuclear fusion experiments, Schultze said.

But Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, said it appeared from the administration witnesses' testimony that it would be "business as usual, and I don't think business as usual supports a tax increase."

Byrnes said he has found "no sense of urgency or real restraint" on the administration's part regarding significant cuts in spending.

Fowler replied the administration has taken budget-cutting measures which are showing up in savings and added more cuts are planned.

"The reductions are there, concrete and being felt," Fowler said.

School Board Asks Taxpayers to Revalue Their Assessments

The Board of Education of Hope School District I-A would like for the taxpayers to make a conscientious re-evaluation of their Real and Personal Property at this assessing time.

Here are reasons the Board lists:

1. The amount of increase in assessed valuation of the school district each year is not enough to offset increased operating cost.
2. Growth of school system.
3. Need for additional personnel in basic program, to lighten teacher load and to increase teacher salaries at least to the State average of $5,188 (1966-67).
4. The minimum wage scale for all non-teaching employees.
5. A budget item of $27,000 for matching contributions of Social Security (all personnel) and Arkansas Employees Retirement System (non-teaching employees) and going up. (This was not in the Budget in 1961.)
6. The School District does not match 6 per cent Teacher Retirement deductions.

Major repairs needed within one to three year period:

1. New roof or major repair to Brookwood and Garland.
2. New heating and lighting system, and water proofing Hope High School.
3. Replace most of floor covering for Hope High (present floor 37 years old).

These are some of the reasons why we need more local support for schools. Local taxes furnish about 40 per cent of school revenue.

Hope School District votes a 40 mill school tax. The state average is 42.22 mills (1966-67).

It is hoped the taxpayers will work with the tax Assessor and respond to this appeal.

In 1970-71 School Year the plan is to build a new elementary school in the Paisley area and other improvements or space will be needed.

We would like to do this without additional millage.

We appreciate your past support but hope we can do more for our Education Program in the future.

"We fully realize that the taxpayers hold the key to first class schools," school officials said.

2nd District Evacuated by the Allies

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops and civilians pulled out of a second district town in the enflamed Khe Sanh Valley Monday as the U.S. Command rushed thousands of reinforcements to South Vietnam's threatened northern sector.

More than 3,000 helicopter-borne infantrymen from the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division were moved up the line, available as backup troops should they be needed anywhere along the front. A battalion of U.S. Marines was rushed to the Khe Sanh combat base to bolster three other battalions there.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said about 200 militiamen, accompanied by an unknown number of civilians, had been withdrawn from the district town of Huong Hoa, nearly two miles southeast of the town of Khe Sanh.

Government forces abandoned Huong Hoa after three days of Communist attack in which the militiamen claimed 250 enemy troops were killed at a cost of 18 Vietnamese dead and 53 wounded.

Wants $2.1 Billion to Create Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to approve a $2.1-billion manpower program—the biggest ever—and to finance a special effort to find jobs for half a million of the hard core unemployed in the next three years.

In a special message, Johnson announced the formation of a National Alliance of Businessmen to work with the government in planning a joint attack on hard core unemployment.

The alliance will be headed by Henry Ford II, board chairman of the Ford Motor Company.

Johnson also disclosed that he is submitting to Congress an occupational safety and health bill aimed at strengthening safeguards against occupational hazards, even for those whose work does not involve them in interstate commerce.

The $2.1 billion price tag for all federal manpower programs would be available in the fiscal year starting July 1 and would represent an increase of $442 million, or about 25 per cent over the current level.

While pointing to declining unemployment and the creation of more than 5,000 new jobs every day during the past four years, the chief executive said that not every American enjoys the right to earn a living.

"We have always paid lip service to that right," he said, "then called for new efforts to make theory a reality."

Bill Would Relieve Bryant of Some Duties

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Robert Shults, a Little Rock attorney, explained a bill to the Arkansas Legislative Council Monday which would relieve the secretary of state of his authority over state printing contracts.

Shults, an attorney for Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, said the bill had been prepared in case a Pulaski Chancery Court ruling that says the state Printing Specifications Review Committee was created illegally is upheld by the state Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court received the case Monday and is expected to hand down a decision next week.

The Printing Specifications Review Committee was created by Act 441 of 1967 and provides for a three-member body to prepare printing contracts for bids. Secretary of State Kelly Bryant has refused to advertise the contracts for bids.

The result could affect chambers throughout the state.

The opinion was requested by Alderman Don W. Garrison in a letter received by the attorney general's office Jan. 3.

Since then, however, chamber officials and Garrison have discussed the matter with Asst. Atty. Gen. Tom Glaze, and Garrison asked Glaze to "hold up" his opinion until further notice.

Monday, Garrison confirmed he had asked a delay but he said that because too many people knew of his request he probably would ask Glaze to go ahead and give an opinion.

Garrison explained his position to other aldermen Monday, who suggested that Garrison amend his request to determine the legality of the city's payment of dues to other organizations, such as the Arkansas Municipal League.

Garrison said his action did not stem from opposition to the chamber. He said labor union officials had brought the matter up and that they did not understand how the city could give money to a management-oriented group such as the chamber while not giving money to the unions.

Seized 25 Miles From Mainland

SEOUL (AP) — The United States reported today a U.S. patrol boat with 83 men aboard was seized by North Koreans in international waters and in Seoul, South Korean troops killed a sixth member of a North Korean assassination team.

A North Korean broadcast charged the vessel was a "spy boat" violating North Korean waters.

The American announcement said the Pueblo, a Navy intelligence auxiliary ship, was boarded by an armed party about 25 miles off the North Korean coast today and taken to Wonsan.

The U.S. announcement said a North Korean patrol boat approached the Pueblo and asked identification. The Pueblo signaled that it was a U.S. boat in international waters and the North Koreans signaled: "Have to or I will open fire on you."

About an hour later, the announcement said, three more patrol boats arrived, surrounded the Pueblo and North Koreans boarded the American vessel. The Pueblo reported she was requested to follow the North Korean ships into Wonsan and that she had not used any weapons, the announcement said.

The final message from the Pueblo reported it was "going off their."

The Defense Department said there were 60 officers, 75 enlisted men and 2 civilians aboard the Pueblo.

In Seoul, meanwhile, South Korean troops tried to round up members of a North Korean team that entered Seoul in an attempt to kill South Korean officials.

A sixth member of the team was shot dead today and a South Korean soldier was killed Monday night in two of several shooting encounters as the Communists tried to elude pursuers.

Seeks Ruling on Cities Helping C of C

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A North Little Rock alderman has asked the attorney general's office for an opinion on the legality of the practice of cities paying dues to local chambers of commerce.

The result could affect chambers throughout the state.

The opinion was requested by Alderman Don W. Garrison in a letter received by the attorney general's office Jan. 3.
